

Candidate Statement 2020

Johanna Rengifo, PhD

Current Position: Clinical Neuropsychologist and Clinical Supervisor at San Francisco Neuropsychology

Education and training: B.A. in Psychology from UC Berkeley; M.S. and Ph.D. from Palo Alto University with dual emphasis in Neuropsychology and Clinical Neuroscience in Women's Health from Stanford University School of Medicine; Predoctoral Internship at the James A. Haley Veterans' Hospital in Tampa, FL; Three years of postdoctoral training in neuropsychology at the Miami VA Healthcare Center, Tampa General Hospital, and Zuckerberg San Francisco General Hospital.

Candidate Statement:

It is an honor to be considered a prospective candidate to serve the Hispanic Neuropsychological Society's Executive Board as Member-At-Large. I have much gratitude to express to the many HNS mentors who have guided me through my training and feel enthusiastic about the many opportunities in which I can now give back. During the two years in 2016 and 2017, when I served as student representative elect and student representative, I experienced a tremendous amount of growth, professionally and personally. It is rewarding to be at the table where decisions are made about the future of multicultural neuropsychology, and I would like to continue to be at that table. I aspire and commit to not only bring my own creative ideas, of which I have many, but also to listen to those in our membership regarding the needs of our providers and populations we serve. I have been inspired by the many leaders who have come before me and would like to carry forward that energy and commitment to bridge the gaps in our minority student pipelines and reduce health care disparities in this country and abroad. Thank you for considering me as a board member for HNS. I would be honored to receive your vote.